

CHOCOLATE CONTEST

Erik Trautmann / Hearst Connecticut Media

Rhianna Ring-Howell, Zachary Go and Sazzad Hossan participate in the Norwalk Public Library's Chocolate Contest on Tuesday, where kids guess the different types of candy bars by sight and also through a blind-tasting in the Teen Center at the main branch library in Norwalk. The Teen Center features special programs like the Chocolate Contest twice a month and regular events for teens in the late afternoon 3 or 4 times a week.
