

Newsbites

Erik Trautmann/Hearst Connecticut Media

Rhianna Ring-Howell, 11, finds Spirit Animals by Brandon Mull during the Children's Book Sale at the Norwalk Public Library in Norwalk Thursday. The Friends of the Library annual Spring Book Sale continues Saturday through May.

NRWI to mount display at library

NORWALK — The Norwalk River Watershed Initiative (NRWI) will mount a display at the Norwalk Public Library in the Main Reading Room area, during the month of May.

This display is part of the Initiative's educational outreach effort to foster stewardship of the watershed to better manage non-point source run-off.

The display will highlight, with compelling images, the important role we all play in the health of local waterways, and the impact that families, businesses and individuals have on water quality, and what can be done to improve and protect this precious resource.

The displayed images will help viewers understand how a watershed works, what it looks like, where Norwalk is located in it, and the types of pollutants that affect it.

For further information about the Norwalk River Watershed Initiative, visit norwalkriver- watershedinitiative.org.